Phosphor Essence

Phosphor Essence is a multimedia company based in Auckland specialising in the following areas:-

- Websites
- Kiosks
- CD-Roms/DVD-Roms
- Digital Videos
- Presentations

The 'No Rubba, No Hubba Hubba' campaign for the Ministry of Health (www.hubba.co.nz) is their most recent website example. They have also created and managed websites for organizations such as Mazda NZ, Fullers (www.awesomenz.co.nz), and Metropolitan Glass. Phosphor Essence also provide a holistic approach to kiosks, providing the right software, hardware, and designing the right enclosures for their clients. They have worked with the Ministry of Health on their 'Healthy Women' kiosk project. These kiosks are being used to educate and inform women around the country with regards to Breast Screening and Cervical Screening. The Healthy Women Kiosks are fully portable.

Village Force worked with Phosphor for International Ticketing Transactional Kiosks, that can now be found in Argentina, Scotland, Taiwan and Hong Kong, translated into four different languages.

Other successful projects include digital video, CD-Rom and presentations for companies like Mastip, Life Education

Trust, and National Business Review 'Business Hall of Fame'. Phosphor Essence believes strongly in a collaborative working relationship with clients when it comes to creating digital content. Phosphor Essence chooses Quicksilver as their ISP partner because of the reliability of their network and services. They have on-going relationships with most of our clients and the importance and assurance of a solid and dependable ISP is vital.
